Syllabus Policy: The attached syllabus is analogous to a contract, albeit unilateral, between the instructor and the students. There will be NO changes except as provided by The Monterey Institute of International Studies & The Fisher Graduate School of International Business policies. Please do not ask for changes to the syllabus.

Required Text: Gibson, C. H. Financial Reporting and Analysis: Using Financial Accounting Information. 11th Ed. South-Western Cengage Learning. ISBN: 0-324-65742-0 on www.ichapters.com

Required Additional Readings (on reserve at the library):

- 1) Henry D. 2004. Fuzzy Numbers: Despite the Reforms, Corporate Profits can be as Distorted and Confusing as Ever. Here’s How the Game is Played. Business Week, Oct.: 79-88.
- 2) Cassidy J. 2002. The World of Business: The Greed Cycle – How the Financial System Encouraged Corporations to Go Crazy. The New Yorker, Sept: 64-77.

Course Description and Objectives: This course teaches financial and managerial accounting concepts from a management perspective. It is designed to be useful particularly for those who aspire to be managers, management consultants, financial specialists (e.g., controller, financial analyst, auditor), or human resource specialists (e.g., personnel director, compensation consultant). The course highlights the reporting differences among industries, including manufacturing, retailing, and service firms, and regulated and non-regulated firms. Statements of actual companies, with an emphasis on international companies, are used in illustrations and cases. The actual financial statements highlight current financial reporting problems, including comprehensive income, segment reporting, options, post-retirement benefits, and the harmonization of international standards.

Examination and Grading: Your grade in the course will be determined by your performance over several activities. The weight given to each is as follows:

	%	Points
Individual Term Project (Written Case Study)	30.0	150
Class Participation/Professional Discretion ¹	30.0	150
Final Exam	40.0	200
Total	100.0	500

¹Includes case presentations, positive contributions in class, attendance, and punctuality.

Your grade will be determined solely based on your performance on the exam and activities indicated. There will be NO extra credit. The only marks that can be earned are noted above. Class Participation/Professional Discretion and the term project will be discussed the first day of class.

Exam may contain a variety of question types to include multiple choice, other objective format, essay, and/or problem questions. The final exam will be comprehensive. Makeup exams will NOT be given. Only excuses allowed by The Monterey Institute of International Studies & The Fisher Graduate School of International Business policies will be allowed. See the General Catalog for the appropriate policies. The final exam and the term project are required for course completion.

Instructional Methodology & Student Preparation: The class will consist of lectures and interactive discussions. You are to prepare for class in accordance with the following schedule. Preparation includes (1) reading the material, (2) solving the assigned exercises and problems, and (3) identifying questions that you need answered. Also, students may be asked to present cases in class. While attendance and homework assignments will not be graded per se, they may factor into the Class Participation/Professional Discretion noted in the Evaluation & Grading section.
